WOMEN WANTED NEW NAME

History of the Foundation of Saint Peter's Episcopal Church and Its Early Rectors.

The rather trite saying, "once a Californian always a Californian," appears to have applied as strongly in the earlier days of our history as it does at the present time. In the Fall of 1866, A. Underhill, who had been a rather prominent resident of the county, returned with his family to New York with the avowed intention of making that state his future home. The experience of one winter, however, seems to have been sufficient to convince him that there was no climate like that of California, for in April of 1867 he returned here with his family and finally announced that this was good enough for him.

In the first part of May, 1867, the new American Hotel building, built for Dr. Merrill on the site of the old hotel of the same name on Main street, and which had been destroyed by fire the year previous, was completed and ready to turn over to E. I. Armstrong, who had leased the place for a term of years. Considering the size of the town, the new hotel was a handsome and commodious one, and it was expected that the place would take first rank as a resort for summer tourists. The main portion of the building, which covered a ground space of 40 by 80 feet, was three stories in height, with the dining room and kitchen in the rear, in a wing of one story. In the second and third stories there were 39 rooms. On the first floor of the main building was located the office, a billiard and bar room, a barber shop, wash room and a laundry. Without the furnishings, which in themselves were somewhat elaborate, the cost of the building was a little over $12,000.

After a term of 15 weeks, the Redwood City public school closed for its Summer vacation on May 10th. The term had been the most successful in the history of the school, the total enrollment of pupils being 148, and the average attendance for the term 122. As recorded in the class register, the pupils receiving a percentage which entitled them to a place on the roll of honor were: Albert Havens, Fred Littlejohn, Jennie Dorland, Mary Teague, Annie Stone, Robert Green, Frank Allen, Susie McClure, Adolph Stone, Edith Rivers, Mary Ellert, Lillie Forrest, Carmelita Basques, Arthur Merrill, Willie McClure, Alice Maxwell, Hanna Prebble, Ruby Jewell, Sarah Jenkins, Maria Ayers, Levi Ellert, Leonora Littlejohn.

While in the early days of our history there were no "Womens Clubs," and it was popularly supposed that the duty of woman consisted in mainly in caring for the home and rearing a family that should go out into the world equipped with the benign influence of a mother's instructions, it appears that at least a few of the women of this section were even then imbued that it was part of their province to take the direction of public affairs, and to at least make suggestions to their male partners as to what was and was not proper. It appears that about this time it was through no fault of a party of about a dozen of these that the name of this city was not changed to one which at that time favored less of commercialism. At a meeting of the party one evening in May it was decided that the name of the city was not a sufficiently esthetic one and that it must be changed. Upon this point it appears that the opinion of the women was unanimous, but when it came to the determination of a substitute, matters were different, for there was an immediate lack of the harmony which was expected to prevail, and each one had a different suggestion, each made with the insistence that her choice was the best. Despairing of any other method of reaching a conclusion, it was finally decided that each one should write her chosen designation upon a slip of paper, and place them in a man's hat, which in some manner they had managed to borrow for the occasion, and the slips drawn out one by one, the last to be drawn to constitute the choice. In the drawing, the last slip to be produced bore the name of "Troy." While this ended the discussion, it failed to create entire harmony of purpose, and it is probable that this lack of cooperative support was the only thing that saved to the town its pioneer name.

The ceremony of the consecration of the new St. Peter's Episcopal church, in this city, took place June 30th, the ceremony being conducted by Bishop William Ingraham Kipp, assisted by Rev. E. S. Peek, of San Jose, and for the first time in the history of the parish Evening Prayer was added to the regular services. At the date of the consecration, Rev. George Burton was the rector. A short history of the formation of St. Peter's Parish and its work up to the time of the consecration of the church may prove of interest at this time, and for this purpose the following facts are collated from the Parish Register through the kindness of James Crow. The first service of the Episcopal church in this city was held on the afternoon of April 10th, 1864, in the courtroom of the County Court-house, Rev. G. A. Easton conducting the service, with an attendance of about 80 persons. The first person to be baptised was Mrs. T. W. Lathrop. The actual date of the organization of the parish was August 26th, 1864. Rev. Mr. Eaton continued as the rector of the parish until October of the same year, when he was called as assistant to the rector of Grace Cathedral, San Francisco, and Rev. A. L. Brewer was called as his successor. Mr. Brewer came here from Detroit, Michigan, arriving here in February, 1865. The first officers of the parish were: John Shelly and A. S. Eaton, wardens; B. G. Lathrop, clerk and treasurer; B. G. Lathrop, Jessie Jewell, F. E. Bartlett and Dr. S. S. Stambaugh, vestrymen. The first steps looking to the building of the church was taken at the Easter Election in 1866, when it was decided to inaugurate a series of special collections to be devoted to a building fund, and the first of these collections was taken on the first Sunday in May, when $44.50 was placed in the fund. During the Summer the ladies of the parish held a series of fairs, through which this fund was increased to over $500, and out of this the lots where the church now stands were purchased from J. V. Diller. Within the year this amount was increased to $1800, and on the 27th of April, 1867, the first earth was removed preparatory to the laying of the foundation of the building, and at the time of the consecration the building had been entirely paid for. On the 4th of May the cornerstone was laid by Bishop Kipp, assisted by Rev. G. Barstow, Rev. A. L. Brewer and Rev. George Burton in the presence of a large gathering of people. Although at that time the membership of the church was but 27, there was much interest in the services and its affairs were in a prosperous condition. On the 13th of the following February Rev. Burton resigned the rectorship and was succeeded by Rev. J. N. Hume, who remained but a short time, and then for a while the parish was without a rector, although services were held with considerable regularity. In April, 1872, Rev. Edward P. Gray took charge of the parish under the direction of the Diocesan Board of Missions, and soon after his coming it was decided to provide him with a rectory and the cottage adjoining the church property was purchased at a cost of $1500. At this time the cottage contained but five rooms, but not long after it was enlarged by the addition of five rooms at a cost of about $700. While this entailed a considerable debt, this was paid in full by the last of October, 1877.

Will Present Cantata.
On Sunday evening, the 19th instant the Redwood City Coral Society will give a production of the sacred cantata, "Cross and Crown," in the First Congregational church. The society has already given several cantatas by the same composer, Ashford, and this will equal if it does not surpass any of the former ones. There is not only much excellent chorus work but a larger number of solos, quartets, etc., than usual. The choral now has a total membership of thirty-seven, under the leadership of Otis M. Carrington. As this cantata is given for the benefit of the Congregational church, by the society in exchange for the use of the church parlors as a meeting place, the members are in hopes that the offering will be a large one.

Will Aid Flower Festival.
Major Charles P. Braslan whose great seed farm, the largest in the United States, adjoins his city, hopes that San Jose will be a vision of loveliness and a paradise of perfume when the next floral festival is held there. Major Braslan has donated one thousand pounds of sweet pea seeds to be distributed among residents of the town, to be raised for decorative purposes for the floral festival. His philanthropy is of a new but high order. Other men since Biblical times have worked that the community in which they live might blossom like the rose; but it remains for Major Braslan to work so that San Jose might blossom.

Miss Emma W. Little, Grand President of the Native Daughters will visit Bonita Parlor next Tuesday evening, accompanied by other grand officers. There will be an initiation and the visiting officers will be elaborately entertained. A full attendance is desired.

New System.

The City Council held an adjourned meeting Monday evening for the purpose of sitting with the delegates from the fire companies for the selection of officers of the fire department. In the absence of City Clerk Plump, Trustee Beeger was appointed to perform the duties of that office.

As representatives of the fire department the following delegates were in attendance: Hose Company No. 1—A. Mansfield, A. S. Liguori, No. 2—A. Stalter, H. Jameson, No. 3—J. McGlynn, Wm. Lutje, Hook and Ladder—Geo. West, Wm. Price; Chemical—Geo. Winter Jr., E. Allen. A quorum being present, on motion of Mr. Liguori the present incumbent, Jos. N. Winter, was renominated for fire chief and nominations closed. On motion of Albert Mansfield the present first assistant, James Coleman was renominated. On motion of Gus Stalter, James McGlynn was nominated for second assistant. No other nominations being made for any of the above, the city clerk cast the ballot and the officers were declared duly elected.

As had been promised at the last meeting, Vernon Smart, of Palo Alto, district manager of the Telephone Company was present for the purpose of explaining the rule of the company requiring a deposit. Mr. Smart explained that the council had a mistaken idea about general installation deposit charges of $5 being made or planned. He stated that deposit charges were only intended to be made against transient residents in order to secure one year's telephone use under contract and to secure the company against loss in case of noncompliance. At the end of one year the deposit is returned with interest, or at a less period than one year is returned less the actual cost of installing. President Merrill suggested the need to adopt some good standard practice. Mr. Smart declared his willingness to co-operate with the City Attorney and trustees in the matter. In reply to questions by Trustee Rice it was stated by Mr. Smart that automatic phones were to be used with the installation of the new system.

Ordinance 87, relating to increase of salary of Town Marshal, and Ordinance 88, relating to storage of petroleum and its products came up for final passage and were adopted. The Standard Oil Company was granted permission to erect a warehouse for the storage of petroleum and its products, under the provisions of Ordinance 88, on lots 13, 14 and 15, block 7, Eastern Addition. These lots are in the extreme southern end of the city, near Dumbarton townsite. Present-day plans are for the oil tanks to be erected within brick walls to retain the oil in case of fire and prevent the burning mass from spreading over the ground.

President Merrill explained that an abstract was being prepared showing the city's title to a 16-foot strip of land on each side of the Southern Pacific railroad right-of-way in the Eastern Addition, as granted by the late T. G. Phelps. The question of proper manner of improving these city streets was laid over.

The Clerk was authorized to call for bids for the laying of 1400 feet of 4-inch water pipe on Willow street.

The street superintendent was authorized to loan some of the city's 6-inch pipe temporarily for use in Dungee Park to carry off storm-water.

Choked to Death
is commonly said of babies who have died of the croup. How unnecessary this is. No child ever had the croup without having a cold or cough at the start. If you will stop the first symptom of the cough with Ballard's Horehound Syrup there is no danger whatever of croup. Sold by Ryan's drug store.

Gas in th Kitch n

A gas company lays no pretension to being a philanthropic institution, and yet in its struggle to develop its business, the gas industry has lightened the labor and increased the comfort of millions of women.

The New York World, in the course of an editorial on the "Golden Age," said: "The kitchen maid of the present day knows more than the fine ladies of Versailles knew when the Louises were kings, and has more comforts and conveniences."

Today the kitchen without a gas range in a community where gas is obtainable is a rarity, and is deemed very antique and primitive by the marriageable generation of young women.

Nearly all women who live in cities will admit, upon reflection, that the gas stove is the greatest single domestic blessing that has become theirs in the last quarter of a century.

Women sufficiently fortunate to know what it is to be free from the intolerable summer superheat of the coal range, and from the well-founded terror of the gasolene stove. It is also their privilege to enjoy the great economy of the gas-burning stove, its immense labor-saving advantage and its cleanliness of operation.

The time was reached some years ago when gas in the kitchen came within the financial reach of every family in the city.

Enforce the Whole Law.

The unceremonious, ejection, last week of an over-interested citizen of San Mateo County from the room in which the Grand Jury were holding their deliberations furnishes grounds for some pertinent reflections. In ordering this citizen of the county from the room foreman Kertell certainly acted within the law and but did his duty. The statute expressly indicates that the deliberations of the Grand Jury are to be strictly of a secret nature, and forbids the presence of any but the members of the body, their legal advisers and necessary witnesses while giving testimony. As this man came under neither of these categories, he had no right in the room and should not have been permitted to remain.

While it is certain that this citizen was not well informed in the details of the law—as indeed many others are not—it can hardly be charged that his entering the room was an act of ignorance. If he had been a reader of the daily papers—and it is fair to presume that he had—there was but little to indicate to him that the deliberations of the Grand Jury were not entirely of a public nature. Having read in these papers almost daily reports of the deliberations of this body, many times accompanied by the use of the name of its foreman as authentication for statements, it is to be wondered that he presumed that as a citizen of the County he had a right to be informed as to the details of these reports.

In its efforts to keep from the public the details of the deliberations of the Grand Jury, at least until its findings are determined the law as much as forbids the public discussion of these proceedings by members of the Grand Jury as it does the presence of citizens at their meetings. If the foreman and members of the jury were correctly informed as to the provisions of the law, it is but fair to presume that they have been acting with a full knowledge of the legal provision in its entirety. Yet it must seem that much of this law has been violated by at least some of the members of the Grand Jury, for in no other manner could the reporters have secured the information published except from the members of the Grand Jury, who alone were informed as to the transactions.

While it was certainly right, in the interest of justice, that this man should be excluded from the room—it is equally certain that a grievous wrong has been done in the making public of even a portion of the deliberations of the Grand Jury. Not only has this act wrought injury to the good name of an honored citizen, but it has cast an unjust reflection upon the entire community. Not only this, but it has done much to bring into contempt this important part of the judicial machinery of the country.

Works a Hardship.

The action of the Grand Jury in demanding that the County Treasurer should produce in this city the entire amount of the funds under his control can hardly be construed in any other light than an unjust and unnecessary hardship upon Mr. Chamberlain. So far as can be learned no one has ever questioned the integrity of Mr. Chamberlain, nor has it been doubted that he could and would produce every cent belonging to the public and placed in his charge when it was required for use of the county. The very refusal of the jury to count or even view the money when produced must indicate that there was not the slightest necessity for the demand. That they did not have an expert present for this purpose would seem to be no reason for the failure to make the proposed count. To determine the correctness of the books of the Treasurer an expert accountant would certainly be required. To determine the amount of money when it is actually present in either coin or currency is an altogether different matter. Any ordinary citizen with sufficient intelligence to fit him for a seat on the Grand Jury can accomplish this task with as much certainty as the most accomplished expert.

As to whether the county has a legal claim for interest on the funds in the hands of the Treasurer or under his control or not is a matter upon which there may be grounds for difference of opinion. This is a question which can only be settled in a legal way, and the presence of the money in the hands of the Treasurer can have no possible influence upon the question. Certainly it is unjust that Mr. Chamberlain should be asked to keep such an amount of money in his possession even for a short time when the county has provided no place for its safety.

With the last week of Christmas shopping now on, it should be borne in mind that the local merchant is entitled to the first consideration. Money spent at home helps for the upbuilding of the city, and eventually redounds to the benefit of out neighbors and ourselves.

THE MEN of the Congregational church will give their second annual men's supper and entertainment at the church next Tuesday evening, December 21st.

Supper at 5:30.

A fine supper is being prepared, and the entertainment that will follow, given by "men only," is expected to be something different.

George A. Hensley of the firm of Hensley and Green, the real estate men who opened up San Bruno Park, and sold many lots on which houses have since been built, was here Monday. Mr. Hensley has recently returned from England where he says he conducted an auction sale of lots outside of the City of London with great success. His sale was the first of the kind ever held in that city and for a time his scheme was looked upon with disfavor but American persistency triumphed and the Londoners finally became interested and the sales gained out handsomely.

It is the intention of Mrs. Ralston to purchase all of this portion of the estate if terms can be agreed upon.
